

GIFTS, SERVICE AND FAITH

A Day of Reflection for Healthcare and Mental Health Professionals and Practitioners

Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils: freely ye have received, freely give. (Matthew 10:8-11)

12 January 2019

The Royal Foundation of St Katharine, Limehouse (2 Butcher Row, London E14 8DS)

10am – 3.15pm

The vocation of working in healthcare or mental health care is a calling from God to use the gifts he has given to care for and look after the sick and needy. The aim of this Day of Reflection is to better understand how we can use our gifts in the service to others, as well as using our gifts to care for ourselves and improve our own spiritual health and wellbeing.

This is a Day of Reflection for healthcare and mental health professionals and practitioners, led by Bishop Paul Mason (Catholic Bishop for Healthcare) and Bishop Richard Moth (Catholic Bishop for Mental Health). The day will consist of Mass, reflective sessions and prayer.

The Day of Reflection is free of charge. Lunch will be provided.
